

Colt James wins wild night at Concord.

Written by ASA LMS PR

Saturday, 29 August 2009 00:00

Concord, North Carolina (Saturday, September 29, 2009): The ASA Late Model Series South returned to the Concord Speedway for Saturday nights running of the "Supersonic 100. A strong field of cars showed up for what turned out to be one of the wildest nights in ASA Late Model History.

Colt James would show early on that he would be the man to beat as he shattered the previous ASA Late Model Track record with a 16.004 (112.472 MPH). After drawing an eight for the invert, Jeff Fultz would start on the pole and lead the first 48 laps as Colt James was powering his way to the front. On Lap 49 James would take the lead and never look back, even when the field was bunched back up at several cautions, James would pull away again.

A strong showing by Justin Larson ended on lap 67 as something broke going into turn one and ending his night. Trent Snyder worked his way to fourth and was working on local driver Roger Newton for third when the two made contact with the #33 of Newton spinning, as the field dodged to miss the wreck Brandon Johnson was shoved into the inside wall ending his night. On the restart Trent Snyder now running third would look to make the pass on Jeff Fultz for second but couldn't make it stick and would settle for third. As the field was getting the white flag the #33 of Roger Newton would slow down the back stretch, Colt James would come around for the victory, but the action was just getting ready to start, on the track. As the field came around on the cool down lap the #33 of Newton got behind the #88 of Snyder and plowed into the back of Snyder's car going down the back stretch but it wasn't done there, as Snyder tried to make his way to the front stretch for victory lane proceedings, Newton wasn't done with Snyder and continued to destroy the Snyder's car as well as his own. With both cars laying mangled at the exit of turn four, Newton's crew would join in by trying to fight Snyder on the front stretch. Safety and Sherriff's deputies arrived on the scene to break it up and let calmer heads prevail.

Almost lost in the melee was the dominating win by Colt James and a great run by Jeff Fultz. This was the second big win for James in as many weeks as he won the big Pro Late Model Invitational at Concord Speedway a couple of weeks earlier.

TRACK: Concord Speedway DIVISION: ASA Late Model Series Southern Division

DATE: Saturday, August 29, 2009 EVENT: 2nd Annual Supersonic 100

Pos.	Start	Car # / Driver / Hometown	Sponsor / Make	Laps	Status
1	8	15 Colt James / Troutman, NC	Hamke Racecars / Ford	100	Running
2	1	66 Jeff Fultz / Cincinnati, OH	Wearcrete / Chevrolet	100	Running
3	11	88 Trent Snyder / Ironton, MN	Elite Care, Zotes Sunflower Seeds/ Chevrolet	100	Running
4	3	59 Dustin Dunn / Jupiter, FL	Demarisco Custom Trim / Chevrolet	100	Running
5	15	4 Michael Pilla / Jupiter, FL	Michael Pilla Racing / Chevrolet	100	Running
6	14	51 Stephen Nasse / Pinellas, FL	All American Concrete / Chevrolet	100	Running
7	9	1 Cooper Faasen / Monroe, NC	Cooper Faasen Racing / Chevrolet	100	Running
8	13	14 Bobby Measmer / Concord, NC	Racing Electronics / Chevrolet	100	Running
9	4	11 Austin Kirpatrick / Ocala, FL	Sonny's BBQ / Ford	100	Running
10	2	31 Brian Blum / Margate, FL	Coulter Motors, Xtreme Graphics / Chevrolet	100	Running
11	5	08 Drew Brannon / Miami, FL	ASI Limited, Spectrum Metal Finishing / Chevrolet	100	Running
12	16	25 Scott Rueschenberg / Mesa, AZ	Elite Care, Zotes Sun Flower Seeds / Chevrolet	99	Running
13	10	93 Brandon Johnson / Lonwood, FL	Suncoast Pasterina / Chevrolet	97	Accident

Last Updated on Monday, 31 August 2009 11:48